WASHINGTON, April 22.

SENATE.

Mr. HOWARD, from the Committee on Private Land Claims, reported back the bill for the relief of the heirs of Antoine Rivard, with a recommendation that it do not pass.

Mr. SUMNER, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported back the bill to provide for the appointment of a Commissioner to the Exposition of Arts and Industry to be held in Vienna, in 1872, with a recommendation that it do not pass.

THE WINNIPEG RESOLUTION.

The Senate then proceeded to consider the resolution relative to the Winnipeg Expedition.

Mr. CHANDLER said he had offered the resolution, in the first place, because he thought the President of the United States should have full information of the condition of affairs in the Northwest, and because he thought the Government should take some action in the matter. He was glad to see that the Government had taken action, and he was glad to see that the Government had taken the action it had. He was glad to see that the Government had taken the action it had. He was glad to see that the Government had taken the action it had. He

PAWNBROKERS' LIABILITIES.

Lizzie Stevens vs. Moses Dreyfus. This was an action brought to recover for an alleged wrongful conversion of property. The plaintiff pawned the watch of her husband, and, not having money to redeem it, sold it to the defendant, claiming that, owing to a defect in the mechanism, the watch would not run, and therefore could be had for a song. She brought suit, and the jury found for her, under the instructions of the Court, for the full value of the watch, $60. Mr. Dreyfus moved for a new trial, which was refused, and he appealed to the General Term.

Mary Welsh and Sarah Welsh vs. Thomas Dermond et al. This was a case of trespass, which had been tried before without bolder in the case, but it was alleged that, after the jury had retired, Mr. Dermond, one of the defendants, had had difficulty in finding the jury-room, and had entered the room of the Grand Jury by mistake.

Among those who were examined on the subject was Mr. Fitzgerald, Deputy Sheriff, who testified that Mr. Dermond had not been in the room of the jury, but had entered that of the Grand Jury. Mr. Dermond, in his own behalf, testified that he had entered the room of the Grand Jury by mistake, and had immediately withdrawn. Some time, we know not how long, elapsed, when he was informed that he had entered the wrong room, and then proceeded to the right one. The jury, after hearing the testimony, brought in a verdict for the plaintiffs for $1,000. Mr. Dermond moved for a new trial, which was refused, and he appealed to the General Term.

Ann Kennedy vs. Thomas Dermond et al. This was an action of the same, precisely, being brought by the same plaintiff, and tried before the same jury, and resulting in a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,000. Mr. Dermond moved for a new trial, which was refused, and he appealed to the General Term.

Henry Sanders vs. Thomas Dermond et al. This was the first case for larceny, the stealing of $20 worth of clothing, which was tried before the jury, and which occupied the attention of the jury for three years. The second indictment was for the larceny (guilt of a coat valued at $30, which remained on trial.

A CORRECTION.

A paragraph appeared in the last report of This Tribune of the 16th inst., which contained several inaccurate statements in regard to the Internal Revenue affairs. Among other things was the statement that Mr. Bowen was under indictment in the Tazewell Circuit for compelling a person named Hoffman to pay him $1,000 to prevent his prosecution for counterfeiting. Mr. Bowen has been a resident of Illinois for many years, and is well known in the first families, and in every instance of his life which they were, or, in the language of the report, "the right kind of people." It is hardly necessary to state that there is no indictment against him in the Circuit Court, nor in any other court, for any other offense, and that in consequence he has never been arrested or compelled to draw or use a revolver.

BASE BALL.

CHICAGO VS. ATLANTIC.

The fine weather of yesterday afternoon was improved by the Chicago Club in playing a practice game against the Atlantics. A large crowd of men and boys were in attendance upon the grounds at the corner of Wood and Taylor streets, and, as usual, the fact of a phenomen or two to prevent the spectators from growing in and settling down to order and quietness, was noticed unusually conspicuously. It is due to the hardest punishment it is ever their fate to administer to be said that the Atlantics did not play their best game, and that upon general principles the Chicago Club was not pushed to its utmost. The latter played in the customary manner with the exception of one base, which was filled by a man in place of Hallman, who was on the field with Wright's players. The Atlantics played their most of the time, but failed to do so, by reason of their inability to judge the ball correctly. Their fielding was very much improved as of no earlier date than the game, but their batting was a somewhat painful exhibition. In the former department Fisler and Remsen did the best work, the latter's throwing to first base being particularly accurate. In the batting line Remsen and Fisler were the only members of the nine who made a creditable showing, the former batting out a three-bagger and a two-bagger, and the latter batting out a two-bagger and a single. The Chicago Club batted with considerable vim, and, as usual, Anson, Hall and Peters were the heaviest batters. As did Remsen, the latter batted out a three-bagger and a two-bagger, and Peters batted out a two-bagger and a single. The fielding of the Chicago Club was very much above the average, and Gore's catching was particularly clever. The score:

Chicago.	R.	B.	A.	Atlantic.	R.	B.	A.
Wood, c. f.	1	1	1	Remsen, 2d b.	1	3	0
Peters, l. f.	1	2	0	Fisler, c.	1	2	0
Anson, 1st b.	1	2	0	Hallman, l. f.	0	1	0

ROWING.

SUPERIORITY OF PACE AND STAMINA.

On Monday, May 1, the Oxford and Cambridge crews will start from Putney for their annual race from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of four miles and a half. The Oxford crew will be in charge of Mr. Warre, the well-known rowing man, as captain, and Mr. Edwards-Moss, who was in the same boat with Mr. Warre when the latter won the University race in 1869, will act as coach. The Cambridge crew will be under the charge of Mr. Trower, who was also in the same boat with Mr. Warre in 1869, and Mr. Muttlebury, who was in the Cambridge boat which was defeated by Mr. Warre's crew in 1870, will act as coach. The Oxford crew will be stroked by Mr. Warre, and Mr. Edwards-Moss will pull No. 2. Mr. Gosling will pull No. 3, Mr. Bourne No. 4, Mr. Bourke No. 5, Mr. Bucknall No. 6, Mr. Bedford No. 7, and Mr. Gibbs will be coxswain. The Cambridge crew will be stroked by Mr. Trower, Mr. Muttlebury will pull No. 2, Mr. Fenwick No. 3, Mr. Bowen No. 4, Mr. Bourne No. 5, Mr. Bucknall No. 6, Mr. Bedford No. 7, and Mr. Gibbs will be coxswain. The Oxford crew will be in training at Henley, and the Cambridge crew will be trained at Ely. The Oxford crew will be in training for about three weeks, and the Cambridge crew for about a month. The Oxford crew will be the heavier, and will have the advantage of greater stamina, but the Cambridge crew will be the faster. The Oxford crew will be the favorites in the betting, but the Cambridge crew will be backed by a large number of their friends.
